

IT Compliance track added to SCCE's 2015 Compliance & Ethics Institute

October 4-7, 2015, Aria in Las Vegas

Minneapolis, Minn.---May 27, 2015---With cybersecurity risks and attacks everywhere your turn, the Society of Corporate Compliance and Ethics (SCCE) announced today it has added a new educational track to the 2015 Compliance and Ethics Institute agenda – the IT Compliance track. This new IT Compliance track has been designed to meet the specific needs of the IT community on today's hot compliance topics. Speakers addressing IT compliance concerns include security experts from the National Security Agency, the U.S. Department of Defense, and IT security professionals from across the globe.

“There are few risk areas capturing the attention of the public like the risks in handling data. This track will bring together compliance and IT professionals to help identify effective strategies for managing data risk,” said SCCE Chief Executive Officer Roy Snell.

The new IT Compliance track includes the following sessions to be held over four days during the SCCE's annual Compliance & Ethics Institute, October 4-7, 2015 at the Aria in Las Vegas:
